Facts regarding Renter's Insurance

- Your landlord's insurance typically only insures the dwelling- not your personal belongings.
- The renter's insurance policy provides for replacement cost coverage of your possessions. Could you afford to replace everything you own if something should happen to your residence?
- Renter's insurance is inexpensive. If you can afford a DVD every month, you can afford renter's insurance.
- Your possessions are covered wherever they may be located. This includes storage facilities off site and items taken from inside your vehicle. Your auto insurance does not cover personal possessions.
- The renter's insurance policy provides for Loss of Use if you should incur a loss and your residence is uninhabitable. This might be a fire, a water loss or another event that leaves you without a home.
